The Royal School are seeking an enthusiastic and innovative Teaching Assistant to support pupils with special educational needs.

The Royal School has achieved excellent academic results throughout its history and has an outstanding reputation for nurturing and developing confident, well-disciplined and successful individuals who progress successfully to the next stage of education. As part of the ongoing development of SEND provision, we are looking for a Teaching Assistant to provide support for pupils in KS1 with SEND needs, in particular those who have an Education, Health and Care Plan. If you are passionate about learning and ready to make a significant contribution this could be your chance to make a real difference. We are especially interested to hear from individuals who have experience in supporting children who have emotional difficulties or children with Autism. Contribution to the broader curriculum would be an essential part of the role as developing the whole individual is very much at the heart of the Royal School's ethos and approach to education.

To meet the needs of our diverse pupil population we are looking for resilient individuals who are willing and able to work within a team and share our can do attitude to removing barriers to achievement and well-being.

If you are an open minded individual who embraces challenges and is looking for opportunities to make a significant contribution to the lives of pupils faced with individual needs, this could be your chance to make a real difference.

As an already successful co-ed independent day and boarding school we are currently expanding, under our Free School status, in a managed fashion to over 1400 pupils. Alongside the growth in pupil numbers there is an ongoing expansion and diversification in the curriculum as well as programmes for staff development.

Please visit the Royal School website for further information and details of how to apply.

The closing date for applications is 16th September 2019.
